

Melinck Corporation Announces Leadership and Investment in Strategic Growth

March 31, 2025

October 13, 2025 – Cincinnati, OH – Melink Corporation, a nationwide provider of essential commercial facilities maintenance services, including HVAC Test & Balance, building commissioning, and energy efficiency solutions, today announced a key leadership transition to further advance its strategic growth initiatives and strengthen its market leadership.

Effective immediately, Joel Geiman, formerly Chief Operating Officer, has been appointed Chief Executive Officer of Melink Corporation. Eric DiNardo, who previously served as CEO, will transition to the role of Chief Development Officer (CDO), where he will focus exclusively on driving Melink's merger and acquisition (M&A) strategy and broadening its capabilities.

This leadership evolution positions Melink for accelerated growth. As CEO, Joel will oversee operations and continue optimizing Melink's core service excellence and innovation. Meanwhile, Eric's new role as CDO enables him to lead the identification, evaluation, and integration of strategic partnerships and acquisitions that align with Melink's mission and long-term vision.

“Melinck is entering an exciting new chapter,” said Joel. “Our mission to deliver exceptional customer service remains steadfast. I’m honored to lead our talented team as we expand our impact and capabilities nationwide.”

“By dedicating my focus to strategic development and M&A, along with the assistance of the Falcon Team, we can accelerate our growth trajectory and continue building upon Melink’s legacy of innovation and service,” said Eric. “Joel’s leadership will ensure our operational excellence remains unmatched as we pursue new opportunities.”

This strategic shift reflects Melink’s commitment to continuous growth, operational excellence, and leadership development—hallmarks that have defined the company’s success for over 35 years.
